

Evacuated Village Endangered By Flow Of Mauna Loa Lava

By STANLEY CARTER
HONOLULU — (P) — Mighty Mauna Loa, a mountain with a stomach ache, continued its greatest eruption of the century today, spewing a lava flow toward the sea that endangered 35 homes and a lodge area.

Police at Kona, a village on the big island of Hawaii, said all residents of the endangered area had been evacuated. The new flow began about midnight and raced at breakneck speed toward the sea.

The lava's path transcends the southwest slope where the second and third flows of last week tumbled into the Pacific. Police said it endangers Ohia lodge and four or five houses clustered around the lodge, and the village of Opihahi, which consists of about 30 houses.

Residents of the village were evacuated Thursday and Friday. The lava was expected to reach the sea in a short time.

On the other side of the volcano foreman Ernest Morton of the Kahuku ranch said the flow there seemed to be dying out. Cowboys were stationed to watch it all night.

(The island of Hawaii is the home of the United States' second largest ranch—the Parker ranch which is slightly smaller than Texas' huge King ranch.)

The new lava stream coursed down the southeast flank, threatening buildings on Kahuku ranch and the villages of Kau, Naalehu and Waiohina. These are located on southeast Hawaii island which

Barkley Talks To MSC Class, Accepts Degree

EAST LANSING — (P) — Vice-President Alben W. Barkley says that American prosperity would be born, not bust, if international quiet permitted a reduction in the nation's fifteen-billion-dollar defense bill.

He made that statement in an interview after delivering the commencement address Sunday at Michigan State college's 92nd graduation day exercises. M. S. C. graduated its largest class in history, 4,469 students.

Defense Too Costly
Barkley rejected the argument that the United States' prosperity is supported by defense spending. "I would hate to think," he said, "that our economy depended on the probability of war. If the international situation clears up, I think it will stimulate the economy of the country. We are spending fifteen billion dollars on defense, where we only expected to spend five billion. The excess ten billion dollars would be spent for the things people need and want, with great benefit to our economy."

Veep Now Doctor
Barkley told the graduating class and an audience of 10,000 persons that "No one wants government so big that it dominates the people but no one wants government to be so weak it can't protect the people."

Michigan State awarded Barkley an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Other honorary degrees were awarded to Max W. Gardner of Berkeley, Calif., pioneer plant pathologist now at the University of California experiment station; John W. Sims of Vickery, Ohio, general manager of the Ohio Farm Bureau; and Donald A. Stroh of Washington, D. C., former major general in command of the 8th and 106th infantry divisions in World War II.

BRANNAN MAN — Agricultural Iowa is a testing ground for Democratic support of the Brannan Farm Plan in today's primary election. The race of Albert J. Loveland, above, for the Democratic nomination for senator from Iowa, has stirred an intra-party squabble and has provided the first real electoral proving ground for the farm plan. Loveland resigned a $17,500 job as undersecretary of Agriculture to run for the $15,000 Senate seat and stump for the Brannan plan.

Belgium Prepares To Bring Back King

BRUSSELS, Belgium — (P) — The Social Christian party, victorious in yesterday's Parliamentary elections, embarked today on a program to bring exiled King Leopold III back to the throne. Enthusiastic party leaders predicted this will be accomplished by July 1 but leaders of the anti-Leopold opposition were not so sure.

The Social Christians, predominantly a Catholic party, won 107 seats in the Lower House against 105 for the combined anti-Leopold forces of Socialists, Liberals and Communists. Ministry of the interior officials said the Social Christians are sure to get control of the Senate, too. By law, only a majority of both Houses sitting in joint session can end the regency of Prince Charles, Leopold's brother.

In yesterday's balloting the Social Christians won 57 of the 100 Senate seats at stake. Ministry of Interior officials said the party would get a minimum of 25 of the 46 seats which will be chosen by provincial councillors and at least 11 of the seats which the Senators fill themselves. This would give pro-Leopold Partisans at least 90 of the Senate's 175 seats, or 197 votes to 190 in a joint session.

Social Christian strategy calls for formation of a government which can win a vote of confidence.

Squabbles Hit Michigan AFL

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — (P) — Internal squabbles are expected to produce the most fireworks in the Michigan Federation of Labor convention which opens here today.

But the delegates also will hear from a number of speakers including Bishop Francis J. Haas of Grand Rapids, Gov. G. Mennen Williams, and William Green, AFL president.

Haas is scheduled to address an opening session today, and Green will be honored at a Wednesday night banquet. Gov. Williams is expected at one of the intermediate sessions.

The inter-union battle is expected to be between opposing forces led by Frank B. Martel, president of the Detroit and Wayne County Council (AFL), and James Hoffa, president of the teamsters union.

One issue may be over the federation's secretary. Robert P. Scott, backed by Hoffa, is running for re-election. Martel's faction is expected to oppose Scott, but as yet has not named its candidate.

George Dean also has announced his candidacy for president of the federation. He was defeated for reelection last year by the incumbent, Joseph M. O'Laughlin.

Body Of Conservation Officer Is Recovered

SAULT STE. MARIE, ONT. — (P) — The body of Clifford Peterman, 39-year-old Michigan State conservation officer who drowned in the Garden river, 45 miles north of the Sault May 5, was recovered Sunday. The body was found approximately five miles from the high dam where Peterman met his death a month ago.

Straits Bridge Authority All Set For Action

Governor Appoints Seven Members

LANSING — (P) — Governor Williams appointed seven members to the reestablished Mackinac bridge authority today and announced he would sign the bill reviving that agency tomorrow afternoon.

The members are: George A. Osborn, publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News, two-year term; former U. S. Senator Prentiss M. Brown, of St. Ignace and Detroit, chairman of the Board of the Detroit Edison Co., six-year term; former Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner, six-year term; Chas. T. Fisher, jr., president of National Bank of Detroit, four-year term; Fred M. Zoller, vice-president of the Chrysler Corp., two-year term; and William Cochran, jr., of Iron Mountain, Upper Peninsula distributor for General Motors trucks and a transportation engineer, four-year term.

State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler is a member of the authority by law.

Williams hailed the action with the statement: "We have started to build across the straits! It may be some time before piers begin to rise or steel cables are actually hung, but we are on our way. Of course, prior to actual construction every test will be made to guarantee the feasibility of such a bridge, but I'm reasonably confident that the engineering experts will declare that the job can be done."

Senate Attacks Price Supports

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON — (P) — The government farm price support program faced a sharp attack in the Senate today.

At issue was a house-passed bill adding another $2,000,000,000 to the present $4,850,000,000 used to keep major farm crops up to certain price levels.

Senators Williams (R-Del) and Ives (R-NY) lined up as leaders of the assault on the present price program, with two main points of action:

1. They question the need for the additional funds in view of widespread reports of short crops this year.

2. They are asking that the system of pegging support prices at 90 per cent of parity (a figure calculated as fair to both buyer and seller) be dropped in favor of a flexible, lower system of price props.

Williams and Ives were counting upon help from other lawmakers who represent populous eastern states and get many complaints about high food costs from consumers.

Nashville Grocers Sell Beer, But No Bread On Sundays

NASHVILLE, — (P) — Grocery and delicatessen stores which operate here on Sundays can sell beer but no bread.

Police arrested five store proprietors yesterday and charged them with violating an old city ordinance which states specifically what retailers may sell on Sunday. "We arrested the violators as soon as we caught them selling things they shouldn't sell, such as bread and beer," said Police Inspector D. H. Hosse.

Some of the closed delicatessen stores placed signs out front saying, "We can sell you beer, but not bread."

Weather Good Except In Lake Superior Area

(By The Associated Press)

Typical June weather prevailed over the nation today.

It was mostly fair throughout the country except for a few showers in South Carolina and thunder-showers in central Texas.

The temperature was rather warm in the Gulf states and the far southwest, but was moderate in most other sections. The coolest weather was in the northeastern states, except for elevated areas in the Rocky Mountains.

Atomic Weapons May Prevent Third War, Military Men Believe

By MAX BOYD

WASHINGTON — (P) — Military planners are sticking to the belief that America's apparent lead in atomic weapons can prevent a third World War.

If one does come, they feel such a head start would play a major role—along with the rest of the nation's defense machine—in achieving victory.

But in conversations with a reporter they made clear they do not think atomic superiority will make defense cheap or easy.

They believe that new tactical atomic weapons—weapons usable against troops and their lines of communications—hold the key to a defense setup which the west can achieve without spending beyond its means.

In a radio and television broadcast yesterday, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, said that atomic weapons for use by the Army "most assuredly can be developed."

He declared that Army is doing a great deal of work toward developing weapons that it can use with atomic materials.

And he added that it is "by no means impossible" to develop an artillery piece that will fire an atomic weapon, or guided missiles which could carry an atomic warhead.

The Associated Press has received authoritative information that such weapons already have been developed.

Referring obviously to Russia, but without mentioning that country by name, Collins said:

Father And Young Daughter Drown In Spread Eagle Lake

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. — The bodies of Lawrence Baga, 34, and his daughter, Nancy 7, of Spread Eagle, Wis., were recovered at 4:30 yesterday afternoon from the waters of West Lake of the Spread Eagle chain, where they drowned a half hour earlier.

Efforts of Dr. M. J. Schroder of Kingsford, who was present when the bodies were recovered, and the Florence fire department pulmotor squad failed to revive them.

The tragedy occurred when Nancy fell from her father's motor launch and Baga dived to rescue her. Both sank before on-lookers from shore could reach the scene.

Chrysler Canadian Strike Is Averted

WINDSOR, Ont. — (P) — Union employees of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, voted today to accept a contract settlement between the company and local 195 United Automobile Workers (CIO). The agreement ended the threat of a strike which had been called for 10 a. m. today.

British Blockade Runner Shelled By Chinese, 6 Killed

HONG KONG — (P) — Six passengers were killed and six were wounded yesterday when two Chinese Nationalist warships pumped more than 200 shells into the British blockade runner Cheung Hing off Amoy.

The attack took place on the high seas some 20 miles outside of territorial waters, the manager of the shipping company here said.

The Cheung Hing is an 800 ton coastal steamer. It had called at the Red port of Amoy with a cargo of fertilizer from Hong Kong. The ship was on its way back here.

Captain J. Skinner of the Cheung Hing notified his office here that the vessel was leaking badly from shell holes and had developed a 10 degree list.

The ship had aboard more than 100 Chinese passengers and a crew of 62, including four Europeans.

The vessel is due back here tomorrow. It has been engaged in blockade running for six months.

Big Strawberry Crop Indicated

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. — (P) — "The first of what may be a record crop of Michigan strawberries brought a record price here Sunday.

Al Dragomir, Benton Harbor grocer, paid $80 for a 16-box crate of premier berries grown by Howard Mundt of Keeler township.

The Sunday auction sale marked the opening of the Benton Harbor fruit market's harvesting season. The market is one of the biggest of its kind in the world.

The highest price previously paid for the first crate of berries was in 1949, when the buyer plumped down $35. The 1950 price was $45 more than this.

The first bulk arrivals of the Michigan strawberry crop are not expected for about another week. Growers say, however, that the crop promises to be a good one.

Berries from the south are now selling in the Benton Harbor area at approximately 39 cents a quart, or $6.40 a crate. The growers say, however, that the superior flavor of the Michigan berries always attracts a higher price.

Michigan VFW Picks Escanaba As Site For 1951 Convention

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — (P) — The Michigan Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars wound up its four-day convention here Sunday by electing G. Edwin Slater of Detroit as its new commander. The delegates also picked Escanaba as the site for their 1951 convention.

Slater, 51-year-old assistant corporation counsel for Detroit, succeeds Herbert W. Devine of Flint. He has served as senior vice-commander.

The 5,000 VFW members and their wives also adopted resolutions favoring the extension of federal rent control, but on a local option basis, and asking President Truman to restore military rank to Charles Lindbergh.

Other department officers elected were Ernie Fry, Battle Creek, senior vice-commander; Jasper H. Kohn, Ferndale, Junior vice-commander; Leo B. Buer, Grand Rapids, judge advocate; C. J. Braun, jr., Lansing, quartermaster; Walter Ellis, Jackson, chaplain; and Dr. J. I. Johnson, Ironwood, surgeon.

Mrs. Emma Applegate of Lansing was chosen president of the auxiliary. Other officers elected included Mrs. Velma Kidd, Ferndale, senior vice-president; Mrs. Dorothy Helman, Muskegon Heights, junior vice-president; and Mrs. Pearl Musser, Kalamazoo, secretary-treasurer.

The delegates to the meeting, which ended Sunday, picked a new executive committee pledged to implementing the Socialist cause.

In so doing, they repudiated the course advocated by Norman Thomas, their six-time candidate for president. He wished to keep the party primarily an educational organization at this time.

The more active way was supported by Darlington Hoopes, newly re-elected national chairman.

Hoopes and eight of his supporters were named to the 12-man executive board. Thomas and two of his followers were picked as minority members.

The repudiation of Thomas' plan put Hoopes in a spot to succeed him in 1952 as the Socialist presidential nominee. Thomas has said he will not run again.

The Socialist platform, as approved by the delegates, called for world disarmament and a stronger United Nations. They urged a "bold appeal to all governments and peoples" for disarmament.

Truman Signs Bill To Assist World Freedom

Big Program Totals $3,121,450,000

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON — (P) — President Truman signed the $3,121,450,000 foreign aid authorization bill today, calling it a "major contribution to peace and freedom in the world."

The measure was signed at a White House ceremony. It authorizes five programs of world-wide aid, including funds for the third-year operation of the European recovery plan, and a start on the "point four" proposal to develop backward areas.

Next Step Awaited

"Taken together," Mr. Truman said of the five programs, "they add up to a broad, enlightened and typically American enterprise in the building of a safe and prosperous world."

In his statement, the president expressed special pleasure over the $35,000,000 fund approved for technical aid under the point four program.

He said it is an important step toward strengthening freedom and defeating "Communist imperialism," and expressed hope that Congress will soon pass a companion measure authorizing the government to encourage and support private investment in needy nations.

"The present act," he said, "is a memorable step forward in our program for peace. I am confident that the Congress will follow through promptly by appropriating the full measure of funds necessary to carry out the programs authorized in this act."

Tribute To Congress

Mr. Truman said the act is a tribute to the "wisdom and vigor of the forward-looking members of the Congress of both political parties, of both Houses, and particularly to the hard work of the responsible congressional committees."

The measure's biggest authorization is $2,850,000,000 for carrying on the Marshall plan in Europe for a third year. Other programs:

1—Aid to the free peoples of Korea, southeast Asia, and non-Communist China—$194,000,000. Of this total, $100,000,000 is provided for the republic of Korea.

2—Technical assistance to underdeveloped areas—$35,000,000.

3—Relief and public works for Arab refugees from Palestine—$27,450,000.

4—Continuing the support for United Nations programs for child welfare—$15,000,000.

The president said the exchange of technical assistance and skills under point four, and the fostering of capital investment abroad, are not new ideas, but are in line with the American traditions of initiative and free enterprise.

Contributions from commercial establishments and professional offices in Ludington street and other business districts are being solicited this week by the Frank Karas Memorial committee.

St. Joe Students Receive Diplomas Here Sunday Night

Bishop Thomas L. Noa of the Marquette diocese and Father David Spelgatti, director of the Marquette Diocesan sodality union were the principal speakers at commencement exercises held last night for 37 students graduating from St. Joseph high school.

Bishop Noa spoke on the application of Christian ideals in a competitive world and Father Spelgatti discussed living up to standards set by Catholic education, justice in the business world and devotion to the Blessed Virgin.

Father Spelgatti urged students to exercise justice in all dealings, charity towards all without discrimination, fulfilling all civic rights as a citizen and Christian and living in accord with Christian moral standards.

Diplomas were conferred by the Most Rev. Thomas L. Noa, and Father Patrick McArron, pastor of St. Joseph church introduced graduates. About 10 Upper Michigan clergymen were present for the commencement. Church altars were decorated with palms and large bouquets of pink peonies.

During the services Frank Hirn sang "Ave Maria" and Bernard Ammel, "Panis Angelicus." Benediction and the Te Deum marked the close of the exercises.

St. Joseph students are writing final examinations this week, and on Tuesday the entire high school student body will see the motion picture, "Hamlet" as part of their English course. Thursday the high school will have a picnic in Pioneer Trail Park and on Friday reports will be given and a closing assembly, with Sister Mary Electa as chief speaker, will be held at the school.

Johnson Court Case Delayed

Two Defendants Are In Hospitals

MANISTIQUE—The court hearing in the Nels S. Johnson estate case, now being heard in Schoolcraft county circuit court, was postponed this morning to Tuesday at 10 o'clock due to unexpected developments in the case. Judge Herbert Rannels will determine when court reconvenes Tuesday whether a further postponement is necessary.

On Friday afternoon, Mrs. G. S. Johnson, one of the defendants and wife of the principal defendant in the law suit, was rushed to the Schoolcraft county hospital in serious condition. On Sunday, G. S. Johnson, the principal defendant, entered a hospital at Newberry for an examination to be conducted by Dr. Matthew Surrall, of that city.

J. Joseph Herbert, attorney for the plaintiffs, told the court this morning that the plaintiffs would be willing to delay the case, in fairness to both sides, and requested a postponement subject to the discretion of the court.

Judge Rannels stated that before making a decision, he desired to confer with Dr. James Fyvie, who is attending physician for Mrs. Johnson, and appointed Prosecuting Attorney W. J. Sheehan to confer with Dr. Surrall at Newberry concerning Mr. Johnson's condition.

Fourth Of July Plans Made Here

Big Parade And Contests Included

A Ludington street parade to include bicycle races and a doll buggy contest as well as traditional marching military units and bands will be one of the highlights of the July Fourth observance in Escanaba.

Plans for the holiday observance are well underway. The Escanaba recreation department and the Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce are in charge of arrangements.

The independence day festivities will include a sports fiesta in which young girls will compete for contest honors, a pet-on-leash parade, swimming races, junior olympic contests, fireworks, an outdoor dance, a baby contest and participation events for adults.

Community Center
Parade entries will be accepted from Delta County business places and organizations. JCC members organizing the parade are insisting that all entries be designed to interest children and are asking that purely commercial floats and other parade entries be avoided.

Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire girls, 4-H clubs, the National Guard, the high school and municipal bands and an accordion band directed by Manley Anderson have already been entered for the parade. Anyone with ideas or entries is asked to contact John Arnold, JCC secretary.

All events for the observance will be concentrated on Ludington street and in the park. As much as possible, JCC members state, solicitation of business places will be avoided. The major portion of revenue for the festivities will be derived from concession stands manned by JCC members, committee leaders have reported. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has earmarked profits from the Fourth of July observance for the community center fund.

Outdoors Writers Laud Walleyed Pike Fishing

Outdoor writers of metropolitan newspapers, who came to Escanaba last week for their spring convention, have returned home to write glowing tales of the walleyed pike catches in Big and Little Bays de Noc. But their articles also reveal a feeling of pessimism about the future of the walleyed pike or dory in this area.

Writing in Sunday's edition of the Detroit Free Press, Jack Van Coevering, who won the coveted "Oscar" award for the best outdoors writing in 1949 says:

"Walleye fishermen in Bay de Noc may be enjoying their last year of phenomenal angling. 1943 Hatch Running Out
"The 1943 year-class of walleyes which has furnished astounding catches both to sport and commercial fishermen, is due to run out.

"To get in on the big kill, commercial fishing rigs have flocked to this port (Escanaba). The yacht harbor, originally designed for pleasure vessels, is jammed with sturdy gray boats built for fishing. Most of them are the gill-net variety, but there are half a dozen deep trap operators, too. They come from fished-out ports in Michigan and Wisconsin."

Gordon MacQuarrie, outdoors editor of the Milwaukee Journal, featured walleye fishing in the Escanaba area in his outdoors page on Sunday.

"Some of the zealots up Escanaba way are claiming that the walleyed pike fishing in Big and Little Bay de Noc is the best in the world. That is taking in a lot of territory. Yet, none who have witnessed what is going on in these two fabulous walleye holes will deny that this is indeed amazingly productive sports fishing, and this reporter can say that it is on a par with some of the same sort of fishing to be found in remote wilderness waters in Ontario.

"For five years now the walleye irruption has been taking place in these two bays just to the north of Wisconsin's own Green Bay. The fisheries experts of Michigan are not sure what brought it about but they point out that the golden pike began their comeback shortly after the big smelt die-off in Lake Michigan in 1943.

$3,600 in Day's Take
"It's two way fishing — for sports fishermen and commercial netters—and thereby hangs a tale. "At present in the area 311 commercial fishing licenses have been issued. Last weekend the number of commercial tugs scooping that finny gold from the bays was estimated at from 60 to 70. They have come from distant points on the Great Lakes.

"One commercial operator sold $3,600 worth of walleyes—a one day take. On the opening day of the season the commercial take at Escanaba was estimated at 92 tons. The price fluctuates with the supply and demand.

"Escanaba is worried about that commercial invasion. Civic leaders and the Escanaba Press are pulling for some control of the commercial fishermen, but all efforts to date in the Michigan legislature have failed. Einar Eriandson, Delta county representative, has introduced several control bills and plans to continue to do so. The aim is to set aside two or three areas of the bays for sports fishermen only.

Dollars Roll In
"You can stop almost any citizen on the street in Escanaba and listen to a tirade against the commercial fishermen. Escanaba well knows that the sports fishermen are spending thousands of dollars in that area, and they want that.

revenue to keep a-comeing. An end to the walleye fishing would certainly stop that flow of outside cash.

"P. J. Hoffmaster, Michigan's conservation director, also is in favor of "some sort of control." But, he points out: "There is a huge crop of walleyes and they should be properly harvested by the commercial fishermen, too."

Apparently, the civic boosters of Escanaba would be satisfied if they could have some restricted areas.

"Here are some figures to show how the commercial take has grown:

Year	Pounds of Walleyes
1944	41,349
1945	18,866
1946	62,415
1947	237,453
1948	467,119
1949	824,896

"This year, the local prophets assert, the take in the two bays will go beyond a million pounds. How long those two bays can continue to fill the commercial nets is what worries Escanaba. The people of Escanaba would prefer those delicious fish to be taken on a sports fisherman's line.

"As one man on the street put it, 'If they let the commercial fishermen keep on the way they are, all we'll have left here is the water.' Some claim that the end of the great walleye explosion, is already in sight and they point to the season of two years ago when you could get your limit in a half hour; now it often takes all day."

Tokyo Conferences To Frame Japanese Peace Settlement

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Agreement between the state and defense departments on plans for a Japanese peace settlement is expected to result from a series of conferences in Tokyo.

Secretary of defense Johnson and the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Gen. Omar Bradley, are scheduled to leave next weekend on a Pacific tour that will take them in about 10 days to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Japanese occupation headquarters.

John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser whom Secretary of State Acheson has asked to work on Japanese policy, also is planning to leave Washington for Tokyo about June 14 and will be there about the same time as Johnson. There is no question among top officials here—Johnson, Dulles or any others—that whatever the course taken American troops will have to remain in Japan for a long time.

MacArthur's general views on the treaty project are well known.

Japan May Lead In Movement To Outlaw Communist Party

GENERAL MacARTHUR reportedly is giving the Japanese government some nudges to outlaw the Communist party in Japan and there are evidences that this action will be taken soon.

If and when the Japanese government outlaws the Communist party in that country, the results may determine what action may be taken to that end in this country.

We have already moved farther than many people may believe towards making it an illegal act to be a member of the Communist party in this country. The results of the trial of Communist leaders in New York indicate this. The defendants in that case were not tried on charges of being members of an illegal Communist par-

No Political Letters In Election Campaign

THE political campaign season is approaching and it is an appropriate time for the Escanaba Daily Press to once again state its policy regarding the handling of political letters submitted for publication in the "Letters" column of the Daily Press.

Between political campaigns, the Press permits a wide scope of political comment in the "Letters" column in the belief that such publication is within the public interest. It helps to reflect public thinking on these issues. During periods of election campaigns, however, it is necessary to treat the political letters with a greater degree of circumspection because political groups are prone to utilize the "Letters" column for election campaign purposes.

The advertising columns of the Escanaba Daily Press are available daily for the presentation of party and individual viewpoints on campaign issues. The "Letters" column will not be available for this purpose during the election campaign.

The Press policy on this situation has been stated in previous years. We are merely restating it at this time in advance of the approaching election campaign to avoid misunderstanding.

Southeast Asia Is Real Battlefront

SO long as Russia goes on probing for weak spots everywhere on the globe, the United States can't safely avoid extending military help to free peoples who need it.

We recognized this reality last year when Congress voted $1,314,000,000 for arms aid to Europe and the Far East. Now President Truman has requested a slightly smaller sum, $1,222,500,000, to continue the program another year.

There's not much doubt that Congress will again approve substantial arms assistance, though vigorous isolationist efforts will be made to block or at least reduce it. Arming our friends may not prevent a new war, but it will make it more remote.

Mr. Truman's plan calls for $1,000,000,000 in aid to North Atlantic treaty countries, $120,000,000 for Greece and Turkey, $27,500,000 for Iran, Southern Korea and the Philippines, and $75,000,000 for the "general area of China."

The last feature seems unnecessarily vague, if not downright evasive. Mainland China is in Communist hands and the difficulties of getting help to the very active guerrilla forces are extreme. Moreover, there's no sign we intend to offer all-out aid to embattled Nationalist armies on Formosa, which may soon feel the weight of Red attack.

Practically speaking, the requested $75,000,000 must be marked largely for Southeast Asia, where Communist elements are fighting a hot war in Indo-China and Malaya that could carry the whole region into the Russian fold.

The U. S. has already promised military aid to Indo-China out of existing funds voted for the "general area of China." But informed guesses have set this original help at $15,000,000, and it is assumed considerably more will be needed there to fend off the Reds.

Why not say the new $75,000,000 is for Southeast Asia? That whole area is looking hopefully to this country for an indication that we are wholeheartedly behind the southern Asiatics in their resistance to communism. A bold statement that they have our material backing would exert a tonic effect upon them.

Possibly Mr. Truman used the phrase "general area of China" because he wants to appease lawmakers who are still highly disturbed at China's fall. But surely any congressman who reads the papers realizes that China is lost for some time to come and Southeast Asia is the real battlefront now.

Alumni Bores

It's the custom of alumni when commencement rolls around, to return to class reunions with the seniors capped and gowned. Then the college days of long ago are eagerly revived, as the older grads recall the awful pranks they once contrived. But the younger generation, as it hears of college lore, finds a former undergraduate can often be a bore.

Now there's first the sprightly gaffer come to worship at the shrine, and he tells you of the doing of the Class of 'Ninety-nine. Then the talk is taken over by the lad in World War One, and he says that when the 'Twenties came, they really got things done. But a chap still younger takes the floor, quite wise to all the tricks, and he's sure they reached perfection in the Class of 'Thirty-six.

In the houses of fraternities, they have a lot to say, and the brothers wince to hear an elder blow about "his day." They must do their best to listen and be understanding lads, but they soon have heard plenty from the gabbing, graying grads. As alumni, they resolve to bid their college days adieu, but they likely will be back to bore the Class of 'Sixty-two.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Congressmen are beginning to change their minds about voting income-tax forgiveness to tax defrauders who come in to the treasury and fess up. Such a tax-forgiveness proposal was voted by the House ways and means committee the other day at the urging of Congressman Walter Lynch, New York City Democrat.

However, some consider it significant that Congressman Lynch has the backing of Joe Numan, ex-commissioner of internal revenue now handling a lucrative income-tax-law business; and that Numan in turn has been representing Frankie Costello.

Regardless of who was behind the tax-forgiveness bill, however, it is now recognized that this would chiefly benefit such big racketeers as Frankie Costello. In fact, some of the big gangsters are said to be praying that such an income-tax-forgiveness bill will pass. For that is about the only way the federal government can catch up with them.

Realizing this, several congressmen are now changing their votes, among them veteran Representative Herman Eberhart of Pittsburgh.

"Like a lot of people, I thought it would bring in some quick money to help balance the budget," says Eberhart. "However, if we approve something like this, it will be an admission that our revenue-collection system has broken down and that we have got to forgive criminals to get money."

The only congressmen who had the foresight to speak out against tax-forgiveness were John Carroll of Colorado, Jere Cooper of Tennessee and Stephen Young of Ohio, all Democrats.

"I will not compromise with a willful fraud," Carroll challenged his colleagues. "Instead of giving big tax evaders immunity, we ought to increase our tax-collection force and go after them."

"That's exactly how I feel," added Young. "It's outrageous to think of giving amnesty to racketeers, gamblers and war profiteers who evaded taxes when we needed the money the most."

DULLES VS. JOHNSON

It looks like the Republican watchdog of U. S. foreign policy, John Foster Dulles, was going to be something of a disappointment to his fellow Republicans. Simultaneously it looks as if the big Democratic money-raiser, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, was going to be quite a help to the Republicans.

In fact, Johnson, the Democrat, is probably going to please the Republicans, more than Dulles, the dyed-in-the-wool Republican.

It was over aid to Formosa and Nationalist China that Republican senators raised such a howl last winter—a howl which led to the appointment of Wall Street Attorney John Foster Dulles as state department adviser.

Now GOP senators find that GOP Dulles is privately critical of GOP General Douglas MacArthur and his Japanese policies, one of which was sending arms to Formosa.

Meanwhile, Secretary Johnson lectures congressmen in support of MacArthur. "There is no Japanese problem General MacArthur can't solve," he says. "The Japs don't want him to leave. Nor do they want a change to civilian rule. There is no resentment against our occupation."

However, MacArthur's tight censorship has prevented the American public from getting a true picture of what is happening in Japan. Nor does the Pentagon building appear to be fully informed.

For, according to information which state department adviser Dulles has given to senators, Japanese Communism is definitely growing, and even Jap businessmen, wanting a share of the huge Chinese market now dominated by the Communists, talk about doing business with Communism.

Dulles, in searching talks with senators, has said he feels the United States must win over Japan as a partner in the cold war. The dilemma, Dulles confided to senators, is that if American troops move out, then armed Communists will move in. Yet if the present military occupation remains, Communists have a better battle cry for sabotaging us.

One solution now under study is to give the Japanese more authority, remove military control, and reconstitute MacArthur's troops as a "Pacific defense force" eventually including the Japanese.

Meanwhile Secretary Johnson is leaving for Japan, privately agreeing with MacArthur that U. S. arms should go to Formosa. In Tokyo, he will huddle with MacArthur on how to sell their program to congress.

WHAT'S THE ORIGIN?

Q. How did men's trousers get so curious a name as "pants"? To me, a pants is a gasping breath, like a dog's pants—A. D.

A. Let us turn the calendar back to the days of ancient Greece. A favorite given name for men was Pantaleon, which had the brave meaning "all lion."

In the second century a famous Roman physician bore the name Pantaleone. He was martyred (A. D. 305) because of his Christian faith, and later became the patron saint of physicians and of the city of Venice.

Because of the saint's popularity, Pantaleone became a favorite given name among Venetians, so much so that Pantaleone came to be a widespread nickname for all male Venetians.

Then, in the old Italian popular comedy, the name Pantalone was given to the main comic character, always depicted as a silly old man with spectacles and wearing slippers, a long, loose coat, and a tight-fitting, trousers-like garment from the waist to the ankles.

In time, pantalone became a synonymous term for buffoon; a tottering dotard. It entered French as pantalon, which was borrowed by the English as pantaloons.

Nation Must Spend Billions On Water Supply In Next 10 Years

By MICHAEL J. SAADA
Staff Correspondent of The Wall Street Journal

PHILADELPHIA—This country is being urged to take out a $3,250 million insurance policy.

No, it's not against an A-bomb explosion or a polio epidemic. It's against the day when you could turn on the water faucet in your kitchen sink and find nothing coming out.

That staggering sum must be laid out in the next 10 years to make sure that water will keep flowing to U. S. homes, farms and factories.

For this protection water users will have to pay a premium. Their cost for delivered water could go from today's average of 2½ cents a person a day to 3 or 3½ cents by 1960.

These water warnings come from men who should know—the superintendents and engineers who run the country's 15,400 water supply systems, public and private, big and little. Several thousand of them are here to attend the 77th annual get-together of their American Water Works Association.

Would Boost Construction
How do the aqua experts propose to provide the anti-thirst insurance? Through water system construction, for the most part. They warn that spending for that purpose in recent years has been a fraction of what it should be.

Louis R. Howson of Chicago's Alford, Burdick & Howson, water system designers and engineers, says the country needs to plank down $325 million a year for 10 years to build up its water systems.

This target is finally being approached after a slow post-war sliver. Indications are that this year's construction spending will top $300 million. That would be about 50 per cent above the 1949 outlay. In 1946-48, when many building materials were still in short supply, the annual average was a mere $135 million.

Use Rises With Population
By running short in some places in the past few years, water has seeped into the consciousness of millions of Americans who once took for granted like the air they breathe. Most of them are in the East, the Midwest and the Southwest.

In parts of these regions, the race between water consumption and available supply, once no contest at all, has turned into a close affair.

In the Detroit area, says L. G. Lenhardt, general manager of the city's water board, population has increased about 30 per cent in the past 10 years, but we are using 45 per cent more water now than we did in 1940. And the system, he adds, is operating at capacity.

Water consumption in Indianapolis has increased more in the past 10 years than in the preceding half-century, that city's water men say.

In Dallas, reports K. F. Hoefle, Water Department chief, "we're using nearly twice the amount of water that we did in 1940."

James E. Kerslake, Milwaukee water boss, says the city's population has risen only 12 per cent since 1940, "but we are pumping almost 30 per cent more water."

Other extra-thirsty areas include the New York City-northern New Jersey region, west Texas, parts of Texas, Gulf Coast and north central Illinois.

Behind the Thirst
Why the water shortages? Droughts, population increases, delays in construction because of the war and greater use of water in air-conditioning systems and in some industries.

To sustain its domestic and industrial life, the U. S. now gulps some 13,200 million gallons of water every day. The annual tonnage of consumption is 13 times as much as the 1,500 million tons of freight carried by Class I railroads last year and 32 times the country's annual output of hard and soft coal together. Daily use now is a shade above this time last year, 5.6 per cent greater than in 1945 and 14.8 per cent above 1940.

A big drain on reservoirs has come about through the expansion of the chemical, paper and textile industries. Next to agriculture, they swallow about as much water as any of the nation's economic users. Their spread in the South and Southwest has put an extra load on the watersheds of many communities there.

Here's a sample of the textile mills' thirst for water: The Lyman, S. C., finishing plant of Pacific Mills uses 10 gallons for every pound (about three yards) of cloth it turns out. Since the output is about 5,500,000 yards a week, the mill consumes more than 18 million gallons a week.

Air-Conditioning a Big User
And Americans' demonstrated liking for air-conditioning in stores, homes, theatres, bars, offices and factories is pushing this convenience ahead as a water consumer; many of the systems depend on rapid circulation of water for their cooling effect.

Just how much the air-conditioning systems use in all no one knows. But this will give you an idea: A fair-sized Midwest department store recently learned it would need 2,000 gallons of water a minute to operate a proposed air-conditioning system. This would amount to nearly three million gallons a day, or enough to supply a city the size of Billings, Mont., Yakima, Wash., Rochester, Minn., or Jefferson City, Mo. The store's request to the city for water was turned down.

Such developments have made the future look dry to many towns and cities. But they're now acting to try to dampen it.

New York Plans Big Outlay
New York City, the biggest and thirstiest of all U. S. metropolises, plans to shell out a hefty $283 million for construction in the next 10 years. It's earmarked $140 million for developing new sources and a similar amount for building reservoirs. And don't forget that $50,000 rain-making experiment going on right now. There's been rain since the cloud-seeding started, but it isn't sure whether the rain-makers deserve the credit.

Gotham's water reserves have inched up to 83 per cent of capacity from little more than one-third last fall, but a year ago the reservoirs were overflowing. Some officials of the Water Works Association describe the city as "living on borrowed water and by the grace of God" for the past five years.

Washington, D. C., its water flow spread thin because of a big population increase, expects to pay a thumping $48 million water construction bill in the coming decade. The nation's capital has plenty of water in the Potomac River, says E. A. Schmitt, its water supply chief. The trouble, he adds, is that distribution facilities "have reached overload capacity. No one could foresee this tremendous growth in population." Not even in a city of planners.

Harry E. Jordan, executive secretary of A. W. W. A., agrees that distribution generally is the difficulty. He says enough water "can be obtained any place in the United States if communities have funds for this purpose. It's not water that's short; it's the facilities to bring it to the consumers."

Houston, with a post-war boom in population and industry and its only water source a series of wells around the city, plans to spend over $20 million to develop a surface supply and to build pumping stations.

To pay for such projects, some cities are going to have to raise rates. Morrison B. Cunningham, Oklahoma City's water chief, predicts higher real estate taxes, at least for a few years, to take care of this city's $10 million expansion program.

But Mr. Schmitt of Washington says rate increases won't be needed now despite the big outlay ahead—the capital nipped its rates 25 per cent two years ago. And Mr. Hoefle of Dallas hopes his city can get by without another boost—it had a 24 ½ per cent raise last year.

Texas Towns Join Forces
The distribution drought isn't all in the big cities. Out on the sun-parched plains of west Texas, several communities with critically low water supplies are talking up a plan to combine their resources to tap the region's Canadian River. One town alone can't afford such a project, but several can, they reason.

The scheme would be modeled on one started a few years ago in southern California. There a number of water-short communities got together and piped in an ample supply from the Colorado River, 300 miles to the east.

Los Angeles, though it's in arid southern California, has enough to quench the thirst of twice its present two million population. Its water is piped hundreds of miles from the Sierra Nevada Mountains and the Colorado River. Just the same, L. A. has earmarked $120 million to be spent in the next five years, mostly on distribution.

Des Moines, Iowa, is a wet spot on the water map. Years ago, the city built an emergency reservoir that holds a 70-day supply, and it's never had to use it yet.

The Dog Problem

Dear Editor:

I would like to have you put a communication in your paper in regard to dogs. I like dogs as much as anyone. I read in the paper that dogs should be licensed and tied up in Delta County, but it seems our town doesn't belong to Delta County, as they are not licensed or tied up. They run around destroying our gardens which makes hard work. Now, can't something be done about this? If people must have pets in town shouldn't they take care of them? Last Monday a child was bitten in the face by a dog. If the dog would have been tied up this wouldn't have happened.

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

STARTING OUT—This is the month of June—and all over the nation parents are trying to remain calm while the young fry receive high school diplomas and start to remake the world.

It is a time for high-falutin' speeches, plentiful advice to the graduates, and small attention to the parents who are expected to donate a new watch and the family car to help Junior celebrate the big occasion.

We will, therefore, devote this "commencement" column to the parents. Let the graduates take care of themselves for the time being.

FACTS OF LIFE—It is true but unfortunate that each generation has difficulty in understanding the other.

Junior considers his immediate paternal ancestor with a combination of respect and disinterest, somewhat like the regard tourists accord the Mississippi river—father of waters.

Both have been rolling along for an undetermined number of centuries. About the only time you notice them is when they get out of bounds.

Daughter, that sweet girl graduate, undoubtedly has a genuine fondness for mother. She is so handy to have around, combining the qualities of a confidant, professional caterer, and a sewing basket.

WORSHIPFUL—Chinese youth once was taught a religion based on ancestor worship. In the United States young people are made to feel that what was good enough for Grandpa isn't good enough for them.

Small wonder, therefore, that many youngsters, view their parents as lovable but slightly archaic examples of the dead past.

Peculiarly enough parents sense such an attitude on the part of their children and try to swing into line—not with the present but with the future. This has its difficulties, since most of their important future is already behind them.

And if they look back over those golden days when they were young and the world was a toy in their hands, they will remember when they thought Mom and Pop were slightly behind the times.

CREAKING ALONG—Despite these recollections, parents cannot refrain from a feeling that high school graduates of 1950 are their superiors. At least in confidence in the future. Pessimism is a combination of defeats in the conflict with life and a decline in the activity of the liver.

For that reason youth faces the future with courage (as yet untried); age with misgiving—having felt some of the pricks of outrageous fortune.

But parents somehow manage to keep creaking along through the old age of the late thirties and the life-behinds-of-forties, knowing that so long as youth has courage there is no need to fear the future.

Each generation accomplishes its own miracles.

THE TRIUMPH—The high school graduates of 1950 might, if they had the time, consider that parents are people and therefore entitled to share in the triumph of the big day.

There is nothing more sincere than the unselfish interest parents have in the success of their offspring. They are shining mirrors that reflect the glowing accomplishments of their children.

To the parents' commencement is almost a personal accomplishment. They have cajoled and prodded, pushed and petted those youngsters along the right path.

Commencement is a milestone in the lives of the parents of the graduates. Sometime, somewhere, someone will inscribe a suitable diploma to present to parents on that important day.

7,500 Christian Scientists Hold Meeting In Boston

Vast new evidences of the power of pure Christianity to solve mankind's problems in modern times were reported today by The Christian Science board of directors.

Addressing a gathering of nearly 7,500 Christian Scientists at the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, the directors declared that healing of sickness, "release and enrichment"—a full answer to human trouble—awaits all mankind through the utilizing of spiritual power.

Emphasizing "the meaning of pure Christianity" for the present age, the directors pointed to concrete evidence that spiritual power can be utilized to heal disease, enlarge individual capacity, provide "sure guidance," uncover hidden resources, and without measure "the precise good that is needed" by every individual in every human circumstance.

Much Progress Reported
Their message, read by Thomas E. Hurley, retiring First Reader of The Mother Church, highlighted a session at which progress was reported in many Christian Science activities. A report of healings of serious diseases by Christian Science, compiled from many countries, was read. The directors reported that a "marvelous new effectiveness" in the practice of Christianity is resulting today from the "scientific understanding" of its meaning. In referring to substantial growth during the past year in the number of Christian Science churches and the ranks of the denomination, the Directors added: The healing work of Christian Science always the best barometer of growth in the movement, was never of better quality or on a larger scale than in the last year.

The audience filled three auditoriums in The Mother Church edifices as well as a nearby theater. Adherents traveled from every state in the union and from Europe, Asia, Australia, and other distant points to attend.

Many arrived in time to attend Sunday services yesterday, and The Mother Church—whose main auditorium seats over 4,000—used the theater building for the overflow. In addition to today's comprehensive session, a series of meetings on various special subjects will be held tomorrow and Wednesday.

More Understanding Needed
Throughout the main session ran the theme of the validity and power of Christianity to answer the problems of the modern age. Walter S. Cross, of Fitchburg, Mass., Christian Science practitioner and incoming President of The Mother Church, declared in his keynote address:

"Men need a deeper understanding of God and His laws in order to cope with the present-day chaos and confusion in world affairs. . . . There is an answer to the mesmeric doctrines of tyranny and mental domination which would spread terrorism over large areas of the globe. The answer lies in the spiritual realm, and is available now."

Steady progress was recorded in reports of various Christian Science activities. George Channing, Manager of Committees on Publication, reported that insurance companies and state laws in growing number recognize the validity of Christian Science treatment, and the right of Christian Scientists to practice their religion by relying wholly upon prayer for physical healing.

In referring to Camp Welfare activities of the church, Gordon V. Comer, Clerk of The Mother Church, mentioned the healing within one week of a veteran, suffering from paralysis, who had not walked for 8 years and had not talked for 20 years.

Circulation Increases
Reporting for the Trustees of The Christian Science Publishing Society, John H. Hoagland, Manager, said circulation of The Christian Science Monitor and the denomination's weekly, monthly, and quarterly religious periodicals had in the past year "reached the highest levels since their founding." He reported an "increasing volume of healing testimonies" volunteered by persons restored to health by Christian Science.

The church does not publish membership figures, but the Directors reported that in each year since 1902, the net gain in membership has exceeded the gain of 2,784 reported for that year by Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science. In each of the last 40 years, the gain "has been several times as large," they stated. They reported a net gain of 38 Christian Science churches in the past year, bringing the total to more than 3,000.

The addition will be a one story structure, 50 x 200 feet to be built at the rear of the present two-story building. It will have bilateral lighting similar to that in the new Cedar River grade school building.

The addition will have three classrooms, each 28 x 30 feet; an

Mountains Are Favored As Vacation Attraction

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Uncle Sam's National Park System expects to play host to 13 million tourists this season. That is to say, one out of every dozen Americans. Most popular of the scenic attractions offered are the mountain reservations which alone look for almost eight million sightseers, notes the National Geographic Society.

Judging by 1949 records, more than a million visitors will journey through the Great Smoky and Shenandoah sections of the Appalachian Mountain chain, while Acadia National Park in Maine will draw about a half million to enjoy the rugged granite beauty of Mount Desert Island.

For the rest of the mountain vacationers it will be westward ho. The big drawing cards there, in order of popularity, are the national parks of Rocky Mountain, Colorado; Yellowstone in Wyoming, Montana and Idaho; Mount Rainier, Washington; Yosemite, California; Glacier, Montana; Lassen Volcanic, California; Grand Teton, Wyoming, and Big Bend, Texas.

Hot Springs Preferred
Official figures disclose, however, that the mountains have not always been as popular as they are now. During horse-and-buggy days of the century's first decade the American people seemed to prefer the milder attractions of such spas as Hot Springs, Arkansas, and Platt National Park in southern Oklahoma.

The reputed medicinal value of the government-controlled Hot Springs waters drew more visitors than all the national parks combined in 1910. But, as President Taft pointed out at the time, Yellowstone National Park was then the only park—among the nation's many "wondrous manifestations of nature"—that was adequately prepared to accommodate the public.

With the creation of the National Park Service in 1917, Rocky Mountain National Park leaped to the front of the popularity list, followed closely by Yellowstone and Yosemite. The boom years of the 1920's ushered in a new era for all the national parks.

Forests Popular
The automobile, improved roads and ready cash drew millions instead of the previous thousands to the parks. Despite the economic depression of the 30's, their appeal as vacation spots continued to grow. Attendance more than doubled between 1931 and 1940, with two new parks—the Great Smoky Mountains and Shenandoah—drawing the lion's share of the visitors.

Second in popularity to the mountains are parks featuring primeval forests and lakes, among them Crater Lake, Oregon; Olympic, Washington; Sequoia, California; Isle Royale, Michigan; Everglades, Florida, and Hawaii, Territory of Hawaii.

Hot Springs and Platt are expected to draw a million and a half visitors; and so are the four canyon parks—Grand Canyon, Arizona; Bryce Canyon and Zion, Utah, and Kings Canyon, California. The three cavern parks—Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico;

Mammoth Cave, Kentucky, and Wind Cave, South Dakota—with unique Mesa Verde in Colorado, complete the top list of vacation magnets.

Camp Fire Girls
Issued In U. S.

The adult leader's role in youth groups and suggestions for helping girls create a vital program are highlights of the Handbook for Guardians of Camp Fire Girls, a program manual just published by that organization.

"Although the handbook was written for Camp Fire Guardians, it contains much material that is of interest to all adults who work with young persons, particularly with girls of Camp Fire age," Miss Ruth Teichmann, director of Camp Fire Girls national program department, stated. "One of our primary objectives was to reflect Camp Fire's concern about good human relationships and to explain how girls may be helped to develop aptitudes as well as attitudes that make such relationships possible."

Volunteer Leaders
The new guide for volunteer leaders of Camp Fire Girls (the ten-through-junior-high school age group of the national organization) is the first major revision of the Guardian's book since Camp Fire conducted a national program study in 1946.

According to Miss Teichmann, specialists in the youth field agreed that the Camp Fire Girls program of helping to prepare the girl for good citizenship and homemaking was educationally and psychologically sound.

"And through interviews with the girls themselves," she said, "we learned that it appealed to ten-to-fifteen-year-olds. The changes that the girls did indicate as desirable involved emphasis, presentation and leadership. As a result the Camp Fire program was developed to include more choice both in activities and in methods of accomplishing them, more group activities and more planning by the girls. These changes are incorporated in the revised Handbook for Guardians."

The first section of the two-part manual tells how Camp Fire's founding in 1910 was prompted by Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick's recognition of the need for wholesome, leisure-time activities for girls. Camp Fire's proving ground was "an unusually happy home (the Gulicks), two of the country's first camps for girls and two progressive schools."

Subject Matter
Other chapters in the first section deal with the normal growth and development of girls from ten to fifteen, ways to help girls create a vital program, specific information on organizing a Camp Fire group and a definition of the place of Camp Fire in the community and in the nation.

The second part concentrates on things-to-do with special emphasis on why and how to use activities in accomplishing Camp Fire's dual objective: "to perpetuate the spiritual ideals of the home" and "to aid in the formation of habits making for health and character." Material in the Handbook for Guardians is closely integrated with the Book of the Camp Fire Girls, written for the girls themselves. Both publications were prepared by the program department of Camp Fire Girls, Inc., 16 East 48 Street, New York 17, New York.

New Orleans Is Being Picked On, Says Ruark

By ROBERT C. RUARK
They have been picking on my town quite a lot lately and I wish they would leave her alone. New Orleans, I mean. Her bark is worse than her bite and she is possibly the last bastion of unabashed wickedness left in a land that has come down with a severe case of superficial self-righteousness.

RUARK

A guy got fed a Mickey some time back in one of the shoddy shops, around Bourbon St., and died. A governor gets loaded and has some trouble with a hacker and a bar tab and it gets in the papers. The gambling probe—surprise, surprise—reveals that it is possible to risk a buck on a crap table in Jefferson Parish. Goodness, gracious me.

New Orleans looks as mean as a Spanish lady in a red dress, with a flower tucked over her ear and a dagger in her garter. The only thing is, in New Orleans' case, the dagger's blade is made of rubber.

Some Safe Spots
I can take you by the hand and tour the more colorful quarters and guarantee no roll, no rob, no Mickey Finn. The tables and machines at Costello's Beverly club are as honest as machines and tables anywhere, and the jocks who pull horses at the Fairgrounds don't pull 'em any harder

Isabella

Mrs. Dale Watchorn left Thursday for Marquette to enter the clinic for treatment for a back injury received when she was a child. She will be at the clinic from seven months to a year.

Mrs. George Mayhew has gone to Manistiquette called by the illness of her mother, Mrs. Emily Gilmet. Mrs. Gilmet is 89 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Norlin of Stalwart, Mich., spent Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Watchorn. The Norlins' daughter, Miss Elsie Norlin, enroute to Marquette where she is a student nurse, was injured in the bus accident near Manistiquette and is a patient at the new Schoolcraft county hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stewart of St. Ignace also were recent visitors at the Albert Watchorn home while they will be spending some time with their daughter, Jean, who is in Schoolcraft hospital suffering from injuries received in the bus wreck.

Oliver Hall and his sister, Mrs. Emma Peterson, left Thursday for L'Anse to spend several days at Mr. Hall's cabin on Conway Lake.

than they do at Belmont or Churchill Downs. They got hard guys with rods and lumpy muscles standing by in the gambling palaces outside town, but that is largely to protect the house and the customers from stickups by hungry opportunists. The cops graft, but cops are on the take everywhere.

Gambling in Louisiana, like gambling anywhere, is administered with a passionate eye to decorum. The drunk, the crook, the troublemaker speedily reaps the heave. A man who runs a dicing den is more intolerant of trouble than a deacon. His conduct must be exemplary.

Home Town Booster
Insofar as decorum is concerned, most people who conduct ginmills on rowdy Bourbon St. are more Babbity than Babbitt. They deal in foreign tourists and one mickeroo in a drink hurts business. So does a fight. So does a raid. So does bad publicity. So does a drunken governor.

The greatest chamber of commerce man I know is an Irishman named Owen Brennan, a red-headed product of New Orleans Irish Channel. Owen runs an ancient spot called the Old Absinthe House and a fine French restaurant called the Vieux Carre. Owen can't differentiate between "oil" and "non," but he can shame a middle western Rotarian when it comes to plugging his town on a civil level. Both his establishments are about as wicked as a USO canteen, except the food and booze are better.

Find Trouble Anywhere
You can go from the Vieux Carre to hear Papa Celestin at his house and fall off at Sharkey's for some prime original jazz or pop to Roy Alcator's or peep into Galantini's or stumble into Jimmy Moran's restaurant and wind up at LaFitte's and never see a bruised jaw or a bulging hip-pocket, or get fed a drink that isn't level. Charley Cantell permits no strife at Pat O'Brien's, where the loud tourists are separated from the quiet tourists. Even the torso-tossing emporiums largely view their products with the cold eye of an insurance salesman, and punish the chumps only by giving them less whisky for more money, which encourages sobriety.

I suppose a guy with a real bent for trouble can find it, but this is also possible in Blue Falls, Mont., or even in Indianapolis on a Sunday afternoon.

People being what they are, they will wish to drink and gamble and kick up their heels occasionally and they will find some opportunity for same. Sin is graciously handled in Louisiana and I am not for reforming New Orleans loose from its casual color and rakish air of spurious wickedness. It isn't that the town is more sinful than other towns—they just run it more dramatically, and you can't beat the food.

Campbells Hold Golden Jubilee In Iron Mountain

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich.—Mr. and Mrs. David H. Campbell, who have resided in Iron Mountain since 1943, when they came here from Wilson, held open house at their home Sunday in observance of their golden wedding anniversary.

Campbell and the former Mary E. Stephen were wedded on June 4, 1900, in Denver, Colo. Their first home was in Tomichi, Colo., a mining district in the western part of the state, where Campbell was business manager of a smelter. In 1903 they moved to Houghton, where he attended Michigan Tech and was graduated with honors in 1905.

Engaged in the mining business for the greater part of his life, Campbell first worked underground in the iron mines at Vulcan, to learn the practical side of the industry. Thus began a career in iron mining which has made him a leading authority on mining in the Menominee range.

Made Superintendent
In 1906 Campbell became superintendent of the Monroe Mining company, at Iron River, where he remained until 1919. It was under his direction that the Homer and Cardiff mines in Iron River were explored. Campbell also supervised the opening and development of the Hiawatha, Rogers and Chicagoan mines in Iron county.

In 1919 Campbell went into business for himself as a mining engineer, and devoted a number of years to exploration and leasing of iron ore properties in the Iron River district.

The Campbells have been active in civic and public affairs throughout their lives. As president of the Iron River chamber of commerce, Campbell was instrumental in securing the building of the North Western and St. Paul railroad depots and the paving of Genesee street. Mrs. Campbell

Wednesday Night Club
CHATHAM—Mrs. Fred Lemm was hostess to the Wednesday Night club Thursday evening, June 1, at her home. Mrs. Hilda Trelford had high score in 500 and Mrs. Richard Williams was low. Mrs. Henry Endahl received the guest award. The next meeting, the final session of the season, will be held at the home of Mrs. Russell Horwood.

Chatham Women's Guild
Mrs. Toivo Kallio and Mrs. Oscar Sandstrom will be hostesses to the Chatham Women's Guild was active in the women's Twentieth Century club and in church work.

Fish Hatcheries
Also to Campbell goes credit for development of three fish hatcheries in the Upper Peninsula and the securing, for Iron county, one of the first agricultural agents in Michigan.

Long interested in seeing the agricultural resources of the Upper Peninsula developed, Campbell served as a director of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau. To that end, also, the Campbells, in 1931 purchased the large Hermansville Land and Lumber company farm at Wilson. In 12 years, the Campbells converted the farm into one of the most progressive and efficient seed potato and dairy farms in the peninsula.

They worked closely with Michigan State college, and numerous staff members from the agricultural departments of the college visited the farm annually. The reputation of the Campbell farm spread throughout Michigan.

In 1943, on retiring, the Campbells moved to this city, where they have since resided.

The couple have three sons, Dr. David Stephen Campbell, of Arlington, Va.; Hugh Henry Campbell of Whiting, Ind., and George A. Campbell, of Evansville, Ind., and three grandchildren.

Seney Refuge Tours Planned

Held On Wednesdays Throughout Summer

Wednesday afternoons, throughout the summer, have been designated as times when visitors will be conducted by guides through the Seney Wildlife Refuge. Announcement to that effect is made this week by C. J. Henry, refuge manager. The first of these tours for the summer will be made Wednesday of this week.

The practice was started by the management last summer. Henry explains, to give visitors an opportunity to see a sample of the refuge. It has been the practice, during these tours to stop at designated spots where the guide will give short talks on items of interest.

"Obviously we cannot permit the public to run loose," says Henry, "because of the irresponsible minority, and it is only during such trips as those planned, that the public will have an opportunity to see and learn something of the inner workings of the refuge."

Those desiring to go on these tours should gather at the refuge headquarters and be ready to go by three o'clock. The trip usually takes an hour and a half, depending on the size and interest of the group.

Although white light penetrates fog just as well as colored light, motorists favor amber over clear lens fog lamps ten to one. This probably is because amber light is the more unusual visual signal.

WAS LOST IN THE WOODS—Louis Losey, 42, is here shown at his home in Germfask on his return Wednesday morning, after spending many hours in the woods in the Seney township area desperately trying to find his bearings. He had left his home about three o'clock Tuesday on a trout fishing expedition. When he failed to return that night Germfask residents and a searching party organized by Sheriff Howard Hewitt set out the next morning on a search of the area. Losey stated that in making a short cut, he lost track of the stream he was working and was unable to retrace his steps. He spent much of the night lying between two logs with drenching rain pelting down upon him. During the night he heard a train whistle, roused himself and set out in the direction of the sound. It was several hours after daylight before he got his bearings. He had fair success at fishing, but in thrashing about among the tag alders, his creel was upset many times and was empty when he got home. "These boots are killing me," he said as he doffed them and posed for the cameraman. (Photo by Vern Linderoth)

She confessed that she had had a "few beers" before the accident happened.

Judge Deemer fined the defendant $50 along with court costs. At present she is serving time in jail, being unable to pay the fine.

Gym Performers Entertain Crowds In Circus Manner

Entertainment as skillful and as carefree as a well appointed vaudeville show regaled local residents who attended the Manistique schools' physical education demonstration at the high school gym Thursday and Friday evenings.

Staged primarily to demonstrate various phases of the physical education work, the various acts were in the nature of folk dances, drills, tumbling acts, contests and work on gymnasium apparatus.

Particularly appealing were two square numbers made up of three sets. Each move was executed in perfect time to the music. Colorful costuming added to the effectiveness of the scene. A folk dance number was also well received by the audience.

What perhaps appealed most to the crowd was the performance of the advanced gymnasium class which went through a performance of acts with a skill that was at times little short of spectacular. Two girls—Joyce McNamara and Clio Johnson—gave a real circus touch to the acts performing with as much skill and daring as the boys. Robert Hussey, athletic director, and Dickie Dufour, "wowed" the crowd with their clowning.

First Methodist—District Superintendent John Meredith of Marquette will conduct a meeting at the First Methodist church on Tuesday evening, June 6 at 7 p. m. All members and friends interested in the church are urged to be present.

Bowling League—The Manistique Ladies' Central Bowling league will hold their banquet on Monday evening, June 5 at 7 p. m. at Arrowhead Inn.

Ladies' Aid—The Zion Lutheran Ladies' Aid will meet Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in the church parlors. Hostesses are Mrs. Clifford Christensen, Mrs. Lauritz Reque and Mrs. Malcolm Nelson.

Redskins Beat Groos, 17-4, For First Victory

Gladstone Redskins broke into the win column with a vengeance Sunday, wallowing Groos, 17 to 4, behind the five hit pitching of Pete DeMenter.

Gladstone banged out 13 hits off Bob Paterek and Max Whitney, two Escanaba high school pitchers hurling for Groos. They combined them with three walks off Paterek and four off Whitney and five hit batsmen by Paterek to win easily.

Legault, Gladstone shortstop, banged out three hits including two doubles, and LaPlant, third baseman, got a double and two singles to lead the Redskins' attack, which got four runs in the first inning, one in the second and five in the third for a good, early lead.

R. Noel, Groos centerfielder, got two of his team's five hits. Paterek, Groos southpaw pitcher, got five walks in his five trips to the plate.

Citation Breaks World's Record

ALBANY, Calif. — Where does Citation go from here now that he's set two world records?

That's the question in the minds of turfmen throughout the country.

The Calumet Farm flier at the Golden Gate fields Saturday won the Golden Gate fields mile in 1:33 3/5 to break the world record of 1:34 set by his stablemate, Coaltown, at Washington Park, Chicago, last summer.

He also became the all-time money-winning horse. His $14,550 share of the $20,000 purse, boosted his earnings to $924,630. Styxie, the previous record-holder and now retired, won $918,485.

But again, the big question is will "Big Cy" go for the $1,000,000 mark.

His trainer, Jimmy Jones, isn't sure.

He doesn't know if he'll send Citation against Noor—two-time conqueror of Citation at Santa Anita—in the $50,000 added Golden Gate handicap June 24.

Frisch Makes Old Timers Click As Cubs Surprise Many Fans

(By The Associated Press)

Frankie Frisch is a candidate for the "Manager of the Year" award—all because his pre-season plan backfired.

How come? Well, when Frisch took his Chicago Cubs to Catalina Island for conditioning last February, he announced he planned to rebuild his club with youth. Of the 39 men in camp, 20 were kids up for their first real chance in the majors.

The Cubs broke away from the barrier fast and today, after seven weeks of competition, they're in fifth place with a better than 500 rating and are only four games behind the leaders.

Who's leading the team? Take a look: Hank Edwards is the club's batting leader with .368. He's 31 years old. Hank Sauer is the league's runs-batted-in pacesetter, with 36. He's also 31. Andy Pafko is tops in home runs with eight. He's 29. And there's the 33-year-old Phil Cavarretta, who is hitting .328 and doing a grand job at first base in his 17th big league season.

On the pitching side, Johnny Schmitz, Dutch Hiller and Walt Duesel, all past 29, have won 10 games among them, or more than half of the team's total of 19.

And the youngsters? Well, there are only six left. Outside of Bob Berkowski, who hasn't played much, not one is hitting .300.

Edwards, Cavarretta, Sauer and Pafko all had a hand in yesterday's 13-8 triumph over Brooklyn that dropped the Dodgers into a first place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cards gained a full game by defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 6-2.

Edwards batted in four runs with two doubles and a single. Cavarretta smacked two singles and his second home run. Sauer tied Bob Elliott of Boston for the league's runs-batted-in leadership by driving in a tally. Pafko got a couple of hits and two walks in five times at bat.

Max Lanier pitched and batted the Cards to their victory. He limited the Phils to eight hits and tripled with the bases loaded to feature a five-run sixth inning blast that wiped out a 2-1 deficit. Ken Heintzelman was the loser.

New York's improving Giants swept past Pittsburgh into sixth place, defeating the Pirates, 4-3. The Giants scored three times in the ninth to overcome a 3-1 deficit.

Thanks to Ken Raffensberger's four-hit pitching and his big bat that knocked in two runs with a pair of doubles, the Reds gained a split in their doubleheader. Boston's Braves' Raffensberger shut out Boston, 3-0, in the opener, but the Braves came back to blast Herm Wehmeier from the box to win the nightcap, 7-6.

The New York Yankees maintained their two-and-a-half game lead over Detroit in the American league as lefty Ed Lopat shut out Cleveland's Indians, 7-0. Detroit's Art Houtteman also hurled a shutout, blanking the Washington Senators, 3-0.

Boston's Red Sox continued to terrorize enemy hurlers at Fenway park. Led by Walt Dropo, Birdie Tebbets, Ted Williams and Al Zarilla, the Red Sox pounded out 21 hits to bury Chicago's White Sox under a 17-7 score. Tebbets and Zarilla got four hits and drove in four runs each. Williams and Dropo collected three hits and scored three times apiece.

The Brownies of St. Louis and Athletics of Philadelphia divided a doubleheader. The Browns won the opener, 12-5, and the A's took the second, 13-6, with a nine-run first inning.

In blanking the Indians with six hits, Lopat kept his Cleveland jinx alive. The lefthander now owns a 25-6 lifetime record against the Tribe.

Houtteman's triumph over the Senators was his sixth of the season. He extended Detroit's winning streak to five and Washington's losing streak to the same number. Bob Kuzava, making his first start for Washington, since the big trade with Chicago, gave up all the runs and eight hits in eight innings.

RETRIEVER — Whiz, a spaniel owned by Elbert Catanzaro, comes out of the rough with one of more than 500 golf balls he has retrieved in the Chicago area.

Art Engaged, Whips Senators

Houtteman Pitches Tigers' 5th In Row

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Just ask the Washington Senators if these engagement parties aren't trying affairs.

They attended one Sunday, and bestowed a nifty little present on the prospective bridegroom, Detroit Tiger pitcher Art Houtteman.

Before the game, the boyish Houtteman announced that he would marry Shelia Marie Kelly of Rahway, N. J., a professional swimmer.

Then he whipped the Nats, 3 to 0, on only six hits.

It was his fifth win of the year, and his second shutout. It also gave the Tigers a record of five straight.

Loser was Bob Kuzava, who started his first game for Washington since being traded by Chicago. He gave up eight hits.

The Bengals got one run in the third inning on Aaron Robinson's single and Johnny Lipon's triple.

They added two more in the eighth on doubles by George Kell and Hoot Evers and a single by Johnny Groth.

The Tigers again take on the Senators today. Dizzy Trout (2-0) will celebrate his return to a starting pitcher status. He will be opposed by Steve Nagy's (2-2). Diz, relegated to relief roles last season, made good a starting try last week.

Ray Robinson Meets Villemain

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, king of the world's welterweights, goes after another title tonight in a 15-round bout with the "indestructible" Frenchman, Robert Villemain.

The Municipal stadium match is billed as a middleweight championship fight by the Pennsylvania state athletic commission. And the winner stands a chance to win National Boxing association sanction as the titleholder if certain conditions are met.

Robinson is a prohibitive favorite to win tonight's match, but Villemain has plenty of backers.

The squat Frenchman, who is only five feet six—has never been knocked out and in 44 fights has hit the canvas only once.

Former Boxing Champ Injured In Crackup

NEW YORK — (AP) — Phil Terranova, former featherweight boxing champion, was in a "fair" condition at Fordham hospital today after suffering injuries in an automobile accident.

The 30-year-old retired fighter received a possible brain concussion and facial cuts when his car skidded on wet pavement yesterday, crashing into a light pole.

The accident occurred about three blocks from Terranova's home.

The plane has been designated the RB-45C. Her jets have a thrust of 20,800 pounds. She has a wingspan of 89 feet, is 75 feet long and 25 feet high. It carries four seats for pilot and co-pilot and an escape hatch for the navigator.

Pro Cage Loop Adds Two Teams

CHICAGO — (AP) — The National Professional basketball league has grown to eight teams today with the awarding of franchises to Toledo and Dayton, Ohio.

Doxie Moore, league commissioner, said an application from St. Louis was rejected because representatives were unable to guarantee a suitable home arena.

Membership in the NPB is now limited to Toledo, Dayton, Washington, La. Milwaukee, Denver, St. Paul, Anderson, Ind., and Sheboygan, Wis.

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

Neil Reese (innocently enough) has started something!

Several days ago, we mentioned that a fan reported Reese, former Gladstone and Iron Mountain high school sprinter and now a Manistiquie businessman, had run the 100 yard dash in :09.8 in a Tri-county meet in 1927.

We called Iron Mountain but the race is not listed as a Mountaineer record.

Comes today a letter from Henry DeFant, who says he was a member of the Vulcan track team that competed in that meet.

Writes DeFant:

"Reese was timed in :09.8 but a check of the track showed he had run 90 yards instead of 100 because they started on a turn and his lane was found to be 10 yards short."

Maybe Neil can settle it. How about it, Neil?

Vic Lemmer is having some fun with his brother, John.

Vic, you know, is a strong Ironwood booster. He was in town over the weekend and said he had John pretty well worked up by needling him that Escanaba's protest in the Houghton track meet was groundless.

Vic admitted he didn't know what the score was but that didn't stop him from pretending that he had inside information that Escanaba's protest was just so much "hot air."

The Ironwood Globe, incidentally, is confident that Escanaba will get nowhere.

"It doesn't appear likely that any changes will be made in the standings," says the Globe. "That ought to settle that."

Vic, incidentally, is pretty proud of his athletic family.

His son, Bill, is a quarterback on the Villanova college 150 pounder football team, which plays Navy, Princeton, Cornell and Rutgers.

Bill obviously has some of his dad's sharpness. When Vic wrote to him with detailed instructions on how to get to New York and how to get around the big city, Bill wrote back:

"What do you think I am, Dad, a hick? I've hitchhiked to New York several times already!"

Vic isn't sending any more instructions.

Vic's other athletic pride is his daughter, Helen, 17, who won the women's downhill ski championship at LaCrosse, Wis., last winter.

Although only a high school senior, Helen won against veterans from Canada, Switzerland and the United States.

"She's got lots of spunk," says Vic, proudly.

And obviously a lot of the dynamic drive that seems to go with being a Lemmer.

3 Homers Win For Bark River

Perronville Beaten By 10 To 4

BARK RIVER—Clarence Kleinman smashed two home runs and John Hansen one as Bark River defeated the hard-hitting Perronville team, 10-4, in the Tri-county league here Sunday.

Ray Menard, Bark River pitcher, allowed Perronville 10 hits but kept them well scattered.

Bark River bunched their hits for four runs in the first inning, one in the fourth, two in the sixth and three in the eighth.

Kleinman and Hansen each got two hits as did Bill Slaga, Glenn Johnson and Tom Polishak for Perronville.

Bark River entertains Foster City Sunday.

Spill Injuries Fatal To Jockey

WILMINGTON, Del., — (AP) — Richard Rozelle, 22-year-old jockey hurt in a spill at Delaware Park, died last night in Delaware hospital. He never regained consciousness after the accident last Friday.

Rozelle went down with his mount, Raise You, when the horse stumbled in the stretch of Friday's featured race, the Kirkwood purse.

St. Joe Loses Windup Games

When it comes to hard luck, St. Joe only two singles, one by Don Paulin and the other by Jim Ottensman.

The St. Joe freshman southpaw had a no-hitter in his hand going into the seventh inning Saturday against Baraga of Marquette but lost the ball game, 1-0, when his mates allowed two flies to drop for hits.

He also ran up against some tough pitching by Jack Dooley, Baraga hurler, who allowed St. Joe only two singles, one by Don Paulin and the other by Jim Ottensman.

The Baraga game was the second of the day for St. Joe, which also lost to Negaunee in a morning tilt. That one was one the boys would like to forget, the score being 13-0.

St. Joe got only four hits, two each by Paulin and John Martinac, off Pitcher Sundell of Negaunee.

Lowell Johnson, Negaunee sophomore shortstop, hit a grand slam home run and a triple and scored three runs himself.

Wakefield Wins Twice In Debut

OAKLAND, Calif., — (AP) — Former Tiger outfielder Dick Wakefield delivered the goods as a pinch hitter for Oakland in a Pacific coast league game here yesterday. His team lost the game to San Diego, however, 11-8.

Wakefield entered the first game of a doubleheader as a pinch hitter in the eighth inning and played left field in the ninth. He got two singles in two trips to bat. One blow, in the ninth, drove in the Oaks' final two runs.

Wakefield didn't play in the second game which was won by Oakland 7-3.

Olson Sparks Attack But Bears Lose Again, 6-4

Addition of Outfielder Charlie Olson, Escanaba high school star, helped the Escanaba Bears' attack Sunday—but not enough.

Olson, added to the lineup in an attempt to get some hitting, did drive out two singles but the Bears lost another close Rainbow League game, being defeated 6-4 at Chatham.

Ronnie Sedenquist, Escanaba catcher, also got two hits. Between Olson and Sedenquist, they got two-thirds of all the Bears' six hits.

The Bears scored all their runs in the fifth inning but the damage had been done as Chatham touched the veteran Jack Beck for two runs in the second, third and fourth innings to chalk up their six runs.

Strikes Out 11
After Beck was relieved by Joe Rademacher, Chatham went hitless.

E. Frigard, Chatham pitcher, struck out 11 Escanaba batters and walked five.

Chatham Shortstop J. Kangas got a home run when the Escanaba fielders lost track of a long ball in the tall grass in left centerfield.

The Bears will play Trenary in a twilight non-league game at City diamond Wednesday night at 6:30.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Chances are you can't compare the Alabama baseball team that's going into the southern NCAA playoffs this year with the 1918 or 1925 clubs . . . But back in 1918 the squad had Joe and Luke Sewell, Lena Stiles, Riggs Stephenson, Frances Pratt, Dan and Ike Boone, all of whom became major leaguers . . . Luke Sewell still is in the big time as manager of the Cincinnati Reds . . . The 1925 outfit included Bruce Conatser, Andy Cohen, Emile "Red" Barnes, Max Rosenfeld, and Grant Gillis, who made the big leagues, not counting those who were just in for a look . . . Best prospect this season seems to be Ed White, an outfielder with a .383 batting average for three seasons . . . He's also good pro football material.

MONDAY MATINEE
When the Browns and White Sox played before a crowd announced as 642 the other day, the actual payoff was on 535 admissions. That's what you'd call conservative "padding" . . . Although New York university announced it is increasing the number of athletic scholarships by 50 per cent, the authorities aren't making it easier for Huch Devore to round up some football players . . . Frank Leahy is a partner in a new insurance brokerage firm with its main office here.

THEM'S HARSH WORDS
Joe Montalvo, Houston Buffs catcher, claims he was tossed out of a ball game recently because he had a sore throat . . . Joe explained he was hollering for Manager Benny Borgmann to come out and discuss a pitch with the umpire and the ump misinterpreted his hoarse words . . . "Why didn't you tell the ump yourself?" someone asked . . . "Well, the ump already told me if I said another word to him he'd throw me out of the game."

SHAVES LEAD
COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Edward Stanczak, a barber at the Great Lakes naval station, rolled into seventh place in the singles at the American Bowling Congress tournament last night with a 699. It was the first change in the singles standings in six days. Stanczak had games of 232-259-208.

'Ol' Bud Gibbs Still Has It

Takes Mound To Tip Rock By 7 To 5

PERKINS—Twenty years ago, Bud Gibbs was captain and star outfielder of Michigan State college's baseball team.

Occasionally, when Coach John Kobs ran short of pitchers, he took his turn on the mound—usually with success.

Sunday he surprised everyone by coming out of retirement and showed he still had something left in that old "sophomore" of his.

Teamed with another veteran, Catcher Stanley Deloria, Gibbs set down Rock with eight hits and struck out 11 as Perkins defeated Rock, 7 to 5, in a Bay de Noc league game.

Not content with pitching a good game, Gibbs had a perfect day at bat, getting four for four.

Valeen, Rock starting pitcher, wasn't so far off himself. He allowed only one more hit than Gibbs and struck out 13 but his mates made four errors behind him.

Edward Lindstrom, Rock second sacker, was spiked in the sixth inning and the mound required six stitches to close.

Van Mill Bar Given Penalty

Order Revocation Of License And Fine

The Michigan liquor control commission today announced penalties including fines totaling $600, revocation of license, and suspensions totaling 105 days, against Van Mill's bar, 903 Delta avenue, Gladstone.

The licensee is Laura Van Mill, who holds Class C and SDM licenses.

Penalties were imposed following hearings on four charges.

The first violation was on Oct. 17, 1949, and the charge was selling or serving to a minor, and allowing a minor to consume. The commission ordered the licensee to pay a fine of $150, suspension of the license for 15 days, with an additional 30-day suspension if the fine is not paid.

On Jan. 10, 1950, it was charged that Van Mill's bar sold or served minors and permitted minors to consume on the premises.

The charge Jan. 12, 1950, was selling to a minor.

On March 24, 1950, the charge was two counts: selling or serving a minor, and allowing a minor to consume on the premises.

For the Jan. 10 offense the commission ordered the licensee to pay a fine of $200 and suspended the license for 30 days, with an additional 40 days suspension if the fine is not paid.

The Jan. 12 violation brought an order for a fine of $250 and 60-days suspension, with an additional 50 days unless the fine is paid.

The March 24 charge brought an order that both the Class C and SDM licenses be revoked.

If there is no appeal from the commission orders, the closing will become effective June 12.

Bingo Game Jackpot Winner Nabbed With Fresh Printed Card

DANIELSON, Conn.—(AP)—“Bingo,” shouted Joseph A. Dugan.

“Police,” shouted the Bingo game operator to whom Dugan had presented the card he said entitled him to a $980 jackpot prize.

The operator said the card Dugan presented was not the card given him when he entered the game, which attracted 200 players to the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall in West Wauregan. Dugan's card had just been printed, the operator said, insisting he could smell fresh ink.

Dugan, 29, denied the accusation, but police booked him on a charge of attempted larceny and held him in $10,000 bail.

Winham County Detective Rowe H. Wheeler said police suspected Dugan had four confederates who hid outside a window with a small printing press, listening to the Bingo operator call out the numbers. These men, police charge, printed the winning numbers on a card and slipped it through a window to Dugan. They are being sought.

Bingo is legal in Connecticut if conducted by a non-profit organization.

State Police Lieutenant Albert Rivers said Dugan had been identified as one of five men who collected a $675 jackpot prize at another Bingo game Friday.

Governor Approves One Bill Aimed At Welfare Chiseling

LANSING — (AP) — Governor Williams signed one of the Republican legislature's anti-welfare chiseling bills today and said he would treat the other four as “a nullity.”

The one he signed (SB 22) is similar to one he recommended to the legislature. The other four were conceived by the Smith investigating committee and Williams said they went beyond the scope of his message to the legislature.

The one signed imposes criminal penalties on welfare officials who knowingly recommended relief to persons ineligible for relief or attempting to cheat. It requires welfare recipients to keep welfare agencies continuously informed of any change in their economic status.

The four which Williams discarded would require administrative approval for the state to pay a county more than 50 per cent of its welfare, family and general economic status has been checked, require counties to submit rules and regulations to the state, and provide for reimbursement of temporary relief.

One-sixth of all the carload freight in the United States originated in Pennsylvania in 1947.

High Court Outlaws Negro Segregation In Railway Dining Cars

WASHINGTON—(P)—The supreme court today outlawed segregation of Negroes in railroad dining cars.

By an 8-0 vote the high tribunal declared such segregation violates a section of the Interstate Commerce Act which prohibits “any undue or unreasonable prejudice” to any person using the railroads.

Justice Burton wrote the court's opinion. Justice Clark took no part.

Those who voted with Burton were Chief Justice Vinson and Justices Black, Reed, Frankfurter, Douglas, Jackson and Minton.

The court was expected to rule on two other segregation cases—perhaps later in the day. They involve segregation by state universities.

The dining car decision was an appeal by Elmer W. Henderson, a Washington Negro. While serving as a field representative of the president's committee on fair employment practices in 1942 he made a railroad trip to Birmingham. Henderson protested that he was unable to get a meal on a Southern railway company diner.

Southern railroads later adopted a policy of setting aside a table or two for Negroes in dining cars. These tables are separated from others in the cars by partitions or curtains. Henderson, however, pressed his fight against any segregation. He is now a director of the American Council of Human Rights.

The new dining car policy was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. When Henderson took his fight to the supreme court, the commission defended its action, but the justice department opposed it.

The department insisted that “the notion that separate but equal facilities satisfy constitutional and statutory prohibitions against discrimination is obsolete.”

Accident Death Toll Still Up

(By The Associated Press)

The violent accidental death toll during the current weekend trails that of the Memorial Day weekend by a narrow margin.

Twenty-two fewer persons had died in traffic accidents at 4 a. m. (EST) today, after 58 hours of counting, than died in traffic mishaps during the comparable period on the Memorial Day weekend.

The toll of all violent deaths, however, was only 12 less than in the Memorial Day weekend at this stage.

The tally is being made by the Associated Press to compare figures for an ordinary weekend with a holiday weekend of similar length 6 p. m. Friday to midnight Tuesday.

The comparative figures early today:

This weekend: 142 traffic deaths, 33 drownings, 63 miscellaneous deaths. Total 238.

The same period last weekend: 164 traffic, 47 drownings, 39 miscellaneous. Total 250.

The first weekend in June claimed at least 13 lives through accidents in Michigan.

Five persons were traffic victims, six drowned and two others died in miscellaneous mishaps.

None of the traffic deaths occurred in Detroit. The city is putting on an intensive safety drive and Monday morning started its fifth straight day without a traffic fatality after a disastrous Memorial Day weekend.

DETROIT—(AP)—Look! 746 hands! And all playing the piano!

That's what happened here Sunday at the seventh annual Michigan music festival.

A total of 373 boys and girls sat down together at 187 pianos and thumped through “Oh, Susanna,” by Stephen Foster, and “The Guitar” by Gaynor.

Later, other groups of 336 juniors, 252 high school students, and 143 adults tinkled the ivories together under the direction of Dr. W. Otto Meissner of Chicago.

The big affair, which attracted 1,100 participants and more than 20,000 spectators at two performances, was sponsored by music teachers in the Detroit area and a Detroit music house.

All told, approximately 11,000 fingers hit a total of 19,800 keys on the 225 pianos used in the performances.

And to top it all, 22 organists also played together simultaneously.

Altar To Saint Peter Consecrated By Pope

VATICAN CITY — (AP) — In a strictly private ceremony, Pope Pius XII today consecrated the central altar dedicated to Saint Peter in the Vatican grottos.

The solemn ceremony climaxed long years of excavations and preparations of the grotto which, Pope Pius long ago said, marks the place where the first Pope and prince of the apostles—Saint Peter—was placed to rest.

The ceremony proceeded while hundreds of Holy year pilgrims prayed on the Basilica's marble floors at the head of the ancient crypts, unaware.

EHS Baccalaureate Held Sunday Night

Baccalaureate services for 176 graduating seniors of Escanaba high school were held Sunday night in W. W. Oliver auditorium with the Rev. Fr. Arnold Thompson, pastor of St. Thomas the Apostle church as principal speaker.

Father Thompson's sermon emphasized the importance of the home as the means for combating the confusion in the world, and that the practice of simple Christianity and its teachings were necessary to restore order in the universe.

In his lecture to the graduates, he pointed out that we are becoming a nation prone to alibi, and blame someone else for mistakes.

“The penalties for ignoring the God who put order in the universe are disorder, confusion and war,” he noted. The Catholic priest also emphasized that young people must learn not to avoid responsibility.

“In the next years of your life,” he said, “your attitude towards life will form an accurate criterion of the success or failure of your high school education. The first thing education teaches, as Traders Horn says, is the ability to walk alone.” Father Thompson stated.

Rev. Steen of the Escanaba First Methodist church gave the invocation and benediction.

The high school a capella choir under direction of Miss Jessie Wick sang “Holy, Holy, Holy” by Dykes, “Beautiful Savior” by Christiansen and “There Is a Balm in Gilead.”

Honors will be conferred on graduating students at exercises which begin at 1:45 p. m. tomorrow. The National Honor society will hold its banquet Tuesday night and the class banquet will be held Wednesday night. Commencement exercises will be held in W. W. Oliver auditorium Thursday night.

Father Thompson, who graduated in 1926 from Escanaba Senior high school, was the first graduate of the school to deliver the EHS baccalaureate sermon.
